Ram – Dodge at the time – began offering vans in the early 1960s. And even before that, dating back to 1918, a series of panel delivery trucks were precursors to the modern vans. The segment has since evolved from a standard size van with basic capability and tolerable efficiency to a variety of purpose-built cargo haulers with engineering and execution that combines desirable sizes, low total cost of ownership and upfit solutions.

There are roughly 175,000 Class 1 cargo vans in U.S. service today, mostly in fleets. Overall Class 1-4 van volumes are expected to be nearly 400,000 units per year over the next five years with small vans representing approximately 25 percent of the segment. Class 1 industry sales data show an increase in cargo van demand of 86 percent, which can be attributed to commercial customers right-sizing van purchases for their businesses.

Available at all 2,300 Ram Truck dealerships, the all-new 2015 Ram ProMaster City offers unsurpassed fuel efficiency, best-in-class payload and the highest cargo capacity in the segment. The new van also offers customers low total cost of ownership, serviceability and more proven experience than anything in the segment.

The Ram ProMaster City aligns with Ram Commercial, a division of the Ram Truck brand, to meet the unique requirements of commercial customers. Commercial business is essential as it represents about one quarter of the total U.S. sales volume.

Joined by the Ram C/V, the 2015 Ram ProMaster City targets countless businesses in a variety of industries, including delivery, service and repairs, construction, transportation/shipping, large-medium-small businesses and agriculture. The economy has incurred pent-up demand to replace aging commercial vans and vehicles that are no longer offered in the market. This has created an opportunity and Ram Commercial now offers a variety of capable and efficient models ready for work.

Top reasons for purchase in the Class 1 van segment:

- Total cost of ownership
- Cargo space and versatility
- Quality, reliability and dependability
- Payload

ProMaster City competitors are: Ford Transit Connect, Nissan NV 200 and Chevy City Express.

Start of production for the 2015 Ram ProMaster City is scheduled for fourth quarter of 2014. The ProMaster City is built in Bursa, Turkey at Fiat's joint-venture TOFAS plant. TOFAS is Turkey's largest auto assembly plant and was awarded a World Class Manufacturing Gold Medal, a testament to Fiat's center of excellence for small commercial vans. The optional ProMaster City cargo van configuration is upfitted at a Chrysler Group Transformation Center in Baltimore, Maryland.
